The Platform and the Candidate.

There can be no doubt that the Chicago platform means peace. It was made by men who are justly called "peace snobs." It was denominated by its framers a "perfect platform." It was unblushingly stated in the Convention, by William Kellogg, of New York, if we are not mistaken, that their platform was "the very embodiment of patriotism and honor." Without so much as craving Mr. Kellogg's pardon, we suggest that his statement is utterly void of truth. The platform which receives such laurels from him, is really the very embodiment of treason and dishonor. It was stated in the Chicago convention that "this platform would raise the country from its depths of misery, and place it again upon a sure foundation." Everybody knows that it could accomplish no such result. The peace snobs themselves know it. Yes, indeed, the Chicago platform means peace. But it is plain to every one who reads it, that it means peace at the expense of national honor, and the disruption of the Union. It means peace through the acknowledgement of the bastard confederacy of Jeff. Davis. Let the policy of this platform be incorporated into the administrative policy of the nation, and the country is ruined. McClellan was evidently ashamed of the platform which his friends made for him. He does not stand fairly and squarely upon it. And yet it is claimed by his supporters that he, too, means peace. It is claimed that he is bound to carry out the wishes of those who put him in nomination; that his policy as president, if elected, would surely conform to the action and resolutions of the Chicago Convention. Nothing is plainer than this. Therefore the leading supporters of McClellan, of the Pendleton school, all take the ground that their candidate, if elected, would prove himself as much of a Pendleton man as Pendleton himself. If McClellan has private opinions adverse to the Pendleton party, they will of course be sacrificed to the views of those who put him in nomination.

It is a very significant fact, that whereas Vallandigham, on the appearance of McClellan's letter of acceptance, was a good deal inclined to kick in the traces, has now become reconciled to the peace warrior, and takes the position that the candidate is all right. In a speech delivered at Sidney, Ohio, on the 24th of Sept., the great martyr is represented as stating emphatically that the "Chicago Convention and platform meant peace, unconditional and immediate, and that McClellan's letter was a mere expression of personal opinion. He would be bound in administrative policy, by the action of the Convention and its resolutions, as construed by those who made them."

Fellow Citizens, patriots, lovers of your country,—are you willing to support a man for the presidency who is thus advocated by one of the vilest of our northern traitors? McClellan is evidently in league with traitors, and you should spurn him as you would a traitor!

A Rebel Opinion of the Butcher Forrest.
Northern apologists for southern treason are in the habit of ridiculing the stories of rebel cruelty as mere canards, fabricated to fire the Northern heart. The Port Pillow massacre, among other horrid acts, is denied by them; and Forrest is pronounced a chivalric officer. The following, however, from the Montgomery Advertiser, which is endorsed in the Richmond Enquirer, shows how Forrest is regarded in the Confederacy. Referring to his recent crossing of the Tennessee, and advance upon Pulaski, it says:

"A brighter day will soon dawn upon the Confederacy. He, of all others, is qualified and has the prestige to break and keep broken, Sherman's communication, and compel him to take up stakes at Atlanta. The Port Pillow affair is fresh in the minds of all the Yankee garrison and troops, so that when Forrest is reported advancing, their cowardly hearts fall them in anticipation of the doom they certainly expect and know they so richly deserve. If Gen. Forrest has been turned loose with his invincible band, there will be a rattling of the bones, not the dead, as in the vision of Ezekiel, but among the bones of live Yankees. His pathway will be a valley of death, where the bones will bleach for years after this war shall close. Create him Lieutenant-General, or place the cavalry of the Army of Tennessee under his command, without orders, and the legions of Sherman would be fleeing toward Yankondoo, as pursued by the besom of destruction. The whole country demands it, looking to him as the great cavalry leader, marked out for the execution of the decisive work in the rear. He has proven equal to any task or exploit upon which he has consented to enter, whether with a small or a large force, and always against odds. Fight with him is to kill and wrench victory from the enemy. In the new field indicated, we believe he will display his great military genius to more advantage than on any former occasion, and prove a destroying angel to the modern Sennacherib."

Meeting of the Little Mccllellans at Madison.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 3d, 1864.
Editor's Gazette.—Perhaps a few words concerning the "big," "monstrous" and "heavy" McClellan demonstration in this city on Saturday last, would be of some little interest to the many readers of your excellent paper. This was an adjourned meeting of the one held here two weeks ago, when, as the Cops. say, free speech was stricken down and the rights of American citizens trampled under foot by the lawless acts of "Lincoln hirelings." Immediately after the first meeting, a secret conference was held by the Madison Copperheads, at the private residence of one of their number, when it was decided to hold another meeting, and to carry concealed weapons with them. This programme was carried out, and the leaders of the faithful, some twenty in number, appeared on the ground, armed with six-barrel revolvers. They were concealed, of course, but some of the side pockets had not been formed as the receptacle of these "peace arguments," but were too shallow, and when the coat was thrown back, as they were in two or three instances by accident, the weapons were plainly seen.

Immediately after the first "razzle," the work of getting up the second was begun. Money was used freely. The Madison leaders visited every town in the County urging out the faithful. The result was a crowd of about 2000 assembled. There was not more than this and I think the actual count would have decreased this estimate; and at least one-half of this number were republican citizens and "Lincoln hirelings." Then the procession was formed, consisting of ox carts, baby vehicles and manure wagons, numbering just 117 in all. After severe perambulations about the streets, and after more than half the procession had fallen out at the various saloons, to increase their stock of democratic courage and inspiration, the procession halted and were soon assembled about the stand in the Capitol park. Just before the speaking began, a guard of 22 soldiers filed into the park and arranged themselves about the stand. This was furnished by Col. Allen of the 5th Regiment, upon the repeated and earnest demands of the leading Copperheads here. These soldiers who had enlisted to defend the flag against the blows of traitors, were now guarding a nest of reptiles whose only business was to create dissatisfaction, and whose only words were treason against the flag that hung over them and venom against those enlisted to defend it. The meeting, was presided over by Judge Vilas, who is a kind of a monomaniac in politics, and is considered quite harmless and is allowed to run at large.

Judge Otton was then introduced and proceeded to expatiate on the beauties of McClellanism. The Judge is considered their "big gun," and when he feels that he has the right on his side, is truly an able and eloquent orator. But his heart is not in this matter. He has been "roped in" by such men as George B. Smith, and has too much pride to recant now. There is not a muscle of his body, or a fiber of his heart that beats responsive to latter-day democracy. He was formerly a silver-gray whig, and the severest invectives ever uttered are recorded in his annals against democracy years ago. He now acts with and talks for copperheadism because those who own him tell him he must. His speech was free from abuse and invective that might be expected from a new convert. Take it all in all and it was a very fair speech. Would do little harm and no good. It lacked the vigor and earnestness of the Judge Otton of former days and was received with little applause. The burden of his speech was in extolling the geographical and statesmanship of McClellan. He had no word to say about the principles of democracy or the Chicago Platform, but confined himself to the good looks and youth of McClellan. At times he would was a little warm and would bestow his praise in rather heavy instalments. When he had finished and descended from the stand, during Smith's speech, an acquaintance of his came up and said "Judge, didn't you say that on rather thick?" Not a d—d bit, replied the Judge. This reply of the Judge reminded me of an occasion when the same words were used by him, but on a different time and under other circumstances. I refer to the time that the Judge was indicted into a Know-Nothing Lodge, in this place, many years ago. He and three or four friends were being initiated at the same time. They were receiving the obligation of the Order and had just to that part where the initiate swears that he is in favor of obliging the foreigner to reside here twenty-one years before receiving the privileges of the elective franchise. One of the friends had some conscientious scruples upon this point and began to argue the question with the presiding officer who was administering the obligation, and thought twenty-one years was too long. The Judge began to gather inspiration from the discussion, and to convince his friend, electrified the Lodge and knocked it from its dignity, by bringing his hand down upon the altar very violently and exclaimed "not a d—d bit." The "friend" failed to be convinced and was lifted from the Lodge, but the Judge went through and became a mutilated and prominent member.

Geo. B. Smith was then introduced and began one of his usual harangues. His style was heavy—a conglomeration of brag, verbosity and egotism. He commenced by saying that it was fashionable now-a-days to be patriotic. He and brother Sloan were both accordingly patriotic. But, instead of going into the army, this patriotism pointed them to the lower branch of Congress. That old tyrant at Washington could now lay his hands upon him and all of us and force us into the army, and we had no redress but must submit. When he should be elected to Congress, then he should no longer be the servant of Lincoln, but would be his master. When not given to black-guardism and heavy tragedy his speech was composed of just twaddle as the specimen I have given. He then commenced his abuse of the soldiers and kept it up during the remainder of his speech. He said there were some good soldiers and a great many bad ones. Those that happened to be in Madison now were principally bad ones. They liked to break up democratic meetings. They had no opinions of their own but were governed by the will of a tyrant; and he had always noticed that it took six soldiers to tell a single man that he was a liar. I have heard Smith often and know that he is capable of saying many mean things, and is proficient in the use of fillings and blackguard epithets. But I never heard a viller or more outrageous attack upon the soldiers than this was. He surpassed himself even and exhausted his well filled vocabulary of abuse and slander. The soldiers stood like martyrs for a season. He started out with the idea of creating a row with the soldiers if possible, and thus raise the cry of "martyr" and make political capital for himself. When he made the assertion that it took six soldiers to tell a man he lied, one six-footer, a cavalry man, cried out at the top of his voice, "you're a liar and I will take you alone." Smith turned on him and said "no man dare come on this stand and tell me I'm a liar." The soldier started for the stand and would have reached it but was turned back by the guard. If he had reached that stand somebody would have dropped for he was terribly in earnest: his manhood had been insulted, his vocation as a soldier had been abused and his motives for enlisting under the flag had been most shamefully and cowardly attacked.

Then commenced the hurrying of epithets at this would-be Congressman more emphatic than polite. One man cried out "you're a liar sir, and come down here and I will cram that last lie down your throat."

Another one hellowed out as loud as he could cry, "you lie like a horse thief and I know will steal like a Tennessee Quarter-master." When Smith made the assertion that the soldier could not exercise his own will but was the slave of a tyrant, an officer standing in a knot of union men, said "a base falsehood was never uttered and I brand this Smith as a traitor and a coward." As Smith stood there surrounded by both friends and foes, I could not but think what a moral courage he exhibited, and how brave (?) a man he must be, to ask to have a guard sent up to keep order, and then, knowing the feelings of the soldiers who composed a large proportion of his audience and knowing the sympathies of that very guard that was protecting him, to take advantage of all these things and vomit forth treason and abuse that would disgrace a pot-house politician. I said to a Wisconsin colonel who was present during most of the speech, and who had just come from the front, "Col. how would these sentiments suit the boys in Atlanta?" His eye flashed fire as he replied, "Gen. Stoke's cavalry, that was recruited in Middle Tennessee—not in East Tennessee but in the 'Middle' where it costs life itself to be a Union man, would hang such a man in fifteen minutes and would consider it an act of justice toward the government that was defending itself against just such traitors as this man."

There was a one-eyed man in the crowd—and by the way a very enthusiastic McClellan man, and an employee in the Register office—who was applauding generally and prominently, and laughed long and loud at every good thing Smith got off for his side. Smith mistook the man and supposed that his noise and interruptions were for the benefit of the soldier part of his audience, and as he had on citizen's clothes he thought he would make an example of him. So George B. turned on him and pointing to him said "there stands a man with one eye who is an old grumbler and murmurer and is trying to create a disturbance here. A man close by the stand got Smith's ear and told him he was mistaken: the man was a good democrat and a pointer in the Patrol office. Smith got himself out of the scrape by saying No, No, I'm mistaken: this man has been a Lincoln man up to this moment and was trying to tell me that he was now going for McClellan. One man converted. Hurrah!

The guard who stood there for this man's protection were the maddest men on the grounds. The swearing of "our army in Flanders" was "small talk" by the side of some of the epithets they used. One of them said to me, "I would like to know if there is any thing in the regulations requiring a soldier to stand guard in such a place and be obliged to submit to all these vile lies and cowardly abuse. I have been in the army over three years and have shot many just such a man as this liar who is now talking, and I don't understand why I should be debarred the privilege now." After submitting to this abuse as long as they could the guard sent word to Col. Allen that, if it was his position, he would remain there would do so; if not, they should throw down their arms.

At the adjournment of the meeting in the afternoon, three cheers were proposed for McClellan. After they were given, one of the guard raised his hat on his by-stand and proposed three cheers for Lincoln and Johnson, and they were given with a will—long, loud and hearty.

In the evening a torch light procession was attempted consisting of thirty-three torches and one or two transparencies. After marching part way round the park they filed into it, when Hayes of Chicago made the attempt to interest them, but thinking he was not appreciated, incoherently "dried up" after talking about fifteen minutes. By this time the audience had dwindled down to a few dozen, when a German minister from Watertown was introduced and commenced a speech in the Teuton, which served to complete the circle and the park was soon empty.

Take it altogether, it will help the Union cause in this vicinity very much. No candid man who listened to the abuse of our soldiers by Smith can have a very high appreciation of that kind of talent for a Congressman. I heard the entire speech of each orator, and in them all I did not hear one word or syllable applicable to the rebels in arms; nor a word of sympathy or praise in behalf of Grant, Sherman and our brave boys who are absent in the field. One remark made by Smith I must not fail to mention. He said, "We have now been fighting over three years and the rebellion is intact to-day. They have a government and are entirely independent of us; and I tell you that you never can conquer them and I hope you won't." He may try to explain this away by saying that it was a "lapsus linguae" or may say that it is a lie altogether; this would be characteristic of him, but I can produce fifty men who will substantiate this statement with their oaths if necessary. Immediately after this speech a prominent republican of this city remarked, "I would give $50 for a verbatim copy of that speech to use as a campaign document."

But I have already trespassed upon your columns. I have mentioned this speech at length, on account of the issues and the men now before the voters of this congressional district. Mr. Sloan has been tried. Every word that he has uttered in Congress and every vote given there, meet the entire satisfaction of every loyal man in his district. The character of the other candidate is portrayed in this speech. We want no follower of Vallandigham and Pendleton to represent the 2d Congressional district of Wisconsin in the United States Congress. You know that the policies of Dane county is somewhat "mixed" but I will stake my reputation on this prophecy we will give Sloan from 700 to 1000 majority and the balance of the Union ticket in this County next November.

A SUPERIOR REMEDY.
We can confidently recommend to those suffering from a distressing cough, Dr. Strickland's Mellin's Compound. It gives relief almost instantaneously, and is without any disagreeable taste. There is no doubt that the Mellin's Compound is one of the best of cough remedies now in use, and all that its proprietors claim for it. We have tried during the past week, and found relief from a most distressing cough. It is prepared by Dr. Strickland, No. 244 Fourth street, Cincinnati, and is for sale by Druggists at 50 cents per bottle.

HAGAN'S MAGNOLIA BALM.
This is the most delightful and extraordinary article ever discovered. It changes the most horrid face and hands to a purely satin texture of ravishing beauty, imparting the marble purity of youth, and the delicate appearance so inviting to the life of fashion. It cures an itchy, pimply, and rough skin, and all that the proprietors claim for it. We have tried during the past week, and found relief from a most distressing cough. It is prepared by Dr. Strickland, No. 244 Fourth street, Cincinnati, and is for sale by Druggists at 50 cents per bottle.

MEXICAN HUSTLING LINTMENT.
The parties in St. Louis and Cincinnati, who have been counterfeiting the Mexican Lintment, under the name of "proprietors," have been denunciately exposed by the Courts. To guard against further impositions, I have procured from the United States Treasury, a private steel plate revenue stamp, which is placed upon the top of each bottle. Each stamp bears the fac simile of my signature, and without which the article is a counterfeit, dangerous and worthless imitation. Examine every bottle. This Lintment has been in use and growing in favor for many years. There hardly exists a humbler on the individual class that does not contain evidence of its wonderful effects. It is the best ointment in the world. While its penetrating properties, the effects upon skin and bone are perfectly remarkable. Sores are healed, boils relieved, Rheumatism, neuralgia, sprains, rheumatism, swellings, lacerations, cuts, cold sores, strabismus, etc., it is a Sovereign remedy that should never be dispensed with. It should be in every family. Sold by all Druggists.

LYON'S KATHIAIRON.
Kathairon is from the Greek word "Katharo," or "Kathairon," signifying to cleanse, purify, and restore. This article is what its name signifies. For preserving, restoring and beautifying the human hair it is the most remarkable preparation in the world. It is long in use and put up by the original proprietor, and is now made with the same care, skill and attention which gave it a sale of over one million bottles per annum.
It is a most delightful Hair Dressing.
It indicates scurf and dandruff.
It keeps the hair cool and clean.
It makes the hair rich, soft and glossy.
It prevents the hair from falling off and turning gray.
It restores hair upon bald heads.
Any lady or gentleman who wishes a beautiful head of hair should use Lyon's Kathairon. It is known and used throughout the civilized world. Sold by all respectable dealers.

DIARRHOEA AND DYSENTERY.

We have examined a great number of letters from some of the most prominent citizens of Cincinnati and Lexington, Ohio, speaking in the highest terms of Dr. Strickland's Anti-Cholera Mixture for the cure of diarrhea and dysentery. The letters are too long to publish. Mr. Woods, of Cincinnati, says he was procured instantly by the best doctors in Cincinnati, and one bottle of Dr. Strickland's Anti-Cholera Mixture effected a permanent cure after suffering for months with the worst form of diarrhea and dysentery.

Another says he was discharged from the United States service, after suffering in the hospital for eight months as incontinent, and as a last resource tried Strickland's Anti-Cholera Mixture. He got well immediately and has now entered the army again in good health. One man writes he has cured seven or eight very bad cases of diarrhea and dysentery in the last week he was in with one bottle of this valuable medicine. In fact we could fill half our paper with similar letters from these letters. Why does not our government secure this valuable preparation? Our army ought to be supplied with it. It is but a shortening of time of one man by a very low condition as one of our Cincinnati Hospital, his wife was sent for. The doctor considered his case as hopeless case. She, however, gave him Strickland's Anti-Cholera Mixture, and in three weeks he was able to return home with his wife to New Richmond, O. All these cases right at home speak for themselves. We hope all the soldiers with one bottle of it in their knapsacks. Many have them or some of their comrades. It is Druggists at 50 cents per bottle.

C. H. BACON, HENRY TOLMAN &

A remarkable subject for scientific men, which recently came to light in the Patent Office, is exciting considerable attention. A patent, issued many years since, which had laid in a safe during that time, upon being taken out was found to have contracted to nearly one fourth of its original dimensions, leaving the letter press and writing perfectly clear and distinct, but so reduced in size, like a miniature photograph copy. The discovery suggests new and important developments in a peculiar branch of science.

It is understood that arrangements are contemplated for the purchase of the cotton of the insurrectionary states on government account, and agents will be soon appointed at New Orleans, Memphis and other points for that purpose, under the act of July last.

The Union Observer gives an account of a little prodigy, only eight years old, who is giving public recitations in that city. He is able to repeat some fifteen hundred selections of prose and poetry, and does so with wonderful oratorical effect. His name is Dudley Waller.

SAVING'S CRYSTAL BLUE, AND BLEACHING PREPARATION.—This Preparation is much superior and cheaper than any other Blue, requiring no preparation for use, and is the only Article extant for bleaching and restoring clothes, yellowed by age, or had washing, to a pure white, without injury. It does not settle in the water and clothes, giving them a "muddy blue" color, like indigo, but is perfectly soluble, leaving the water clear, and imparts a delicate blue-white tint to articles, without depositing any sediment or stain, and is warranted not to injure the most delicate fabric, and when known by housekeepers will supersede all others.

It has now been in use in the N. E. States for over ten years, and invariably given satisfaction, and is of the same standard quality as when first introduced, but owing to the numerous cheap and worthless imitations that have been put into the market, we have been compelled to adopt the now PATENT SAFETY BOXES which cannot be imitated; and being put up in this style it is more economical than other Blues, as there is no waste, the arrangement of the Boxes being such that the slightest quantity can be used if necessary.

CONRAD & VANKER are the sole agents for the above preparation in this county. Price 15 cts. per box. The Trade supplied at a liberal discount.

BENNETT, CLERK OF SAID COURT, ATT'Y FOR PLED.
To appear January _____

CIRCUIT COURT, ROCK COUNTY.
The undersigned Clerk plaintiff, against Calvin Vinson, Rachel, his Wife, John Beckner and Emma Beckner,
Do hereby certify that the following is a true and correct copy of the record of the proceedings in the above entitled cause, taken from the records of said court.

[illegible][illegible]

County may not vote in any or all such proposals if they shall determine to be unworkable.

Section 6.—If the Common Council may require such person or persons whose proposal or proposals shall be accepted, to execute a bond to said city, with one or more persons approved by the Common Council, in such amount and on such terms as said Council shall direct, conditioned that the person or persons whose proposal shall be accepted, shall pay to said city the sum specified in such specifications at such a price and upon the terms provided according to such specifications as shall be determined by the Common Council, such bond to be approved by said Council and with such other conditions as may be required by said Council.

Section 7.—The Common Council shall in such manner as shall direct, to ascertain the amount of grading, paving, or other work to be done on any street, alley and the whole or a part of such work, including surveying, specifications, advertising, Treasurers compensation, and other expenses, and the same shall be paid in full or a part of such total shall be assessed with a proportion of such expense equal to such proportion of the total cost of such work.

Section 8.—Upon the assessment being made as above provided an assessment list shall be made to present to the Common Council, and the same shall be printed and rolled in its form, two copies of which shall be made by the Clerk and signed by the Mayor or presiding officer of the Common Council, and the same shall be divided into two of which copies shall be filed by the Clerk and kept in his office, the other of which shall be sent to the Treasurer of said city, and the Clerk shall forthwith deliver the same with the warrant annexed to the Treasurer of said city.

Mayor and City and shall have the seal of the city affixed thereto, and shall be substantially the same as the seal of the City of St. Louis, and shall be used for the collection of taxes.

Section 10.—Upon receiving said statement, list, the Treasurer of the City of St. Louis shall cause the same to be published in the collection the next day, as the collection of the annual City and Ward taxes of said city.

Section 11.—The proceedings of the Treasurer upon any assessment list made pursuant to the provisions of this ordinance shall be kept by him distinct from all other records of the City of St. Louis, and shall be accessible only by orders expressly directing their application to the payment of the expenses for which such assessment list was made.

Section 12.—The City of St. Louis shall not in any manner be liable for any work done under any bid or proposal made pursuant to the provisions of this ordinance, until said bid or proposal has been accepted, and until said bid is paid for out of the moneys assessed and collected as provided.

Section 13.—The Common Council of said city shall have the power and is hereby authorized in case the person or persons whose bid or proposal shall be accepted, shall fail to comply with the conditions and specifications in the manner or at the time fixed by said Council or in pursuance of the conditions of said bid to declare such bid or proposal null and void, and to award the work to the person or persons whose bid or proposal shall be accepted, and said Council in declaring such bid or proposal null and void shall not in any way be liable to the person or persons whose bid or proposal shall be rejected for their surties from liability upon said bid.

Section 14.—This ordinance shall be in force from and after its passage.
